FORWARD

It has long been our dream at Notre Dame to issue for the pleasure of the faculty and student body a remembrance of their year within these walls. It is to you, then, the people of Notre Dame, that we present the fulfillment of this dream. If, in future years, while turning the pages of your 1960 IRISH ECHOES, that special smile of recollection finds its way to your lips, you may be assured that this book will have accomplished the purpose for which it was published.

—The Editor

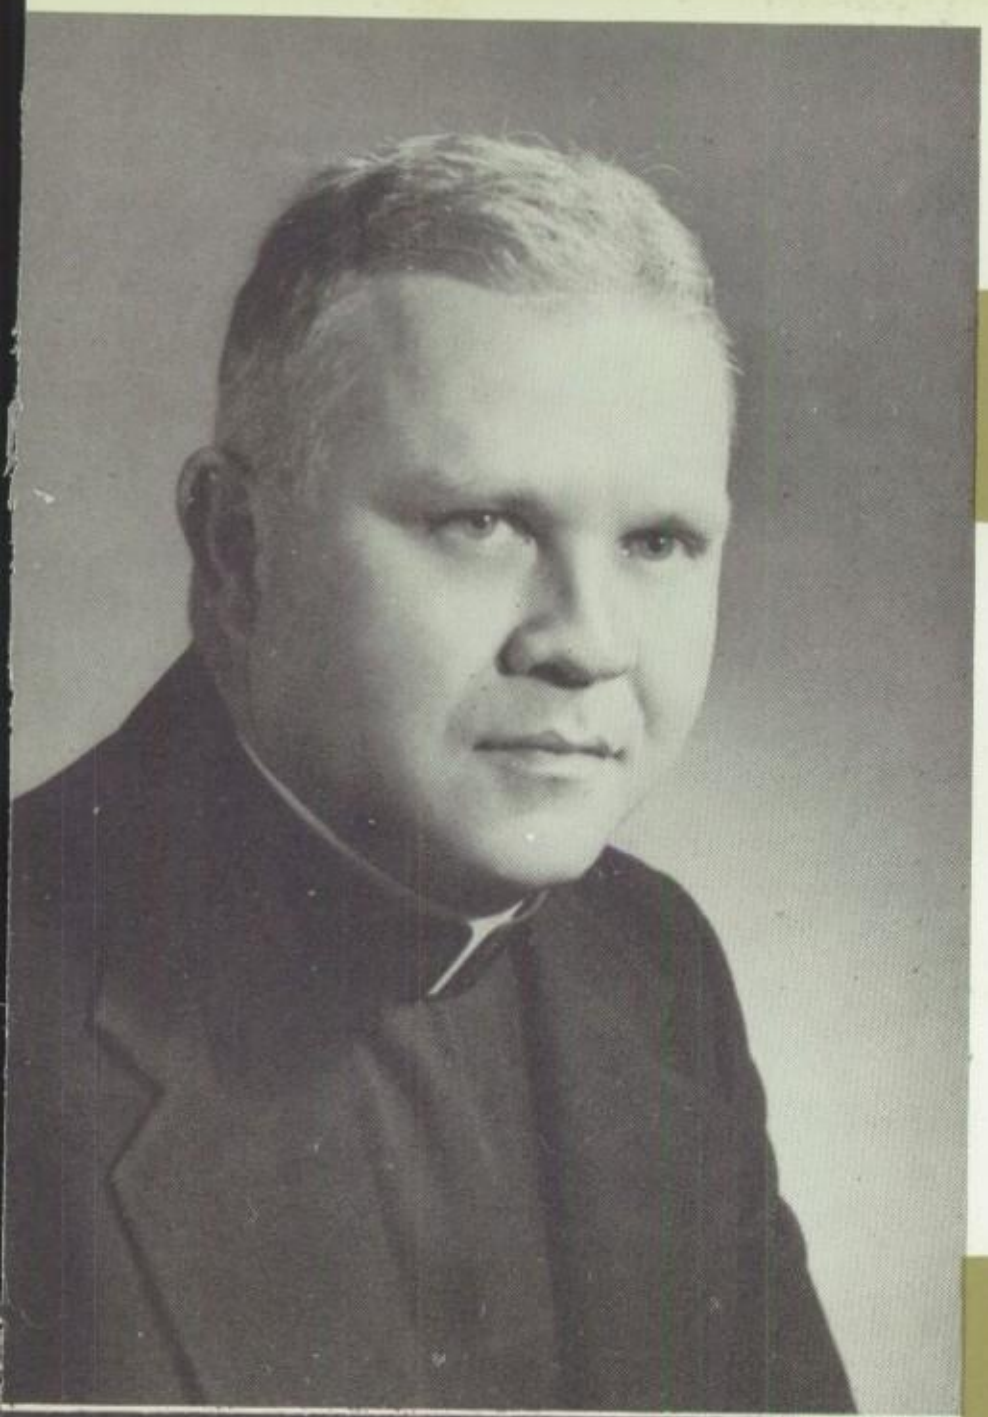
In Tribute To . . .

Only once in the history of a school does such a man as Father Driscoll come along — a man who loves a school as much as he loves Notre Dame and who works unceasingly to make it great. . . .

Five years ago you came to Notre Dame, Father. What were your thoughts as you climbed the worn steps of this old brick building? Did you know then that you would soon be taking our little school to your heart? Did you think that in the space of five short years you were to become as much a part of Notre Dame as the cornerstone you passed on that fateful day? Did I say a part of Notre Dame? Why, Father, you ARE Notre Dame! You are all she was meant to be and all she strives to be.

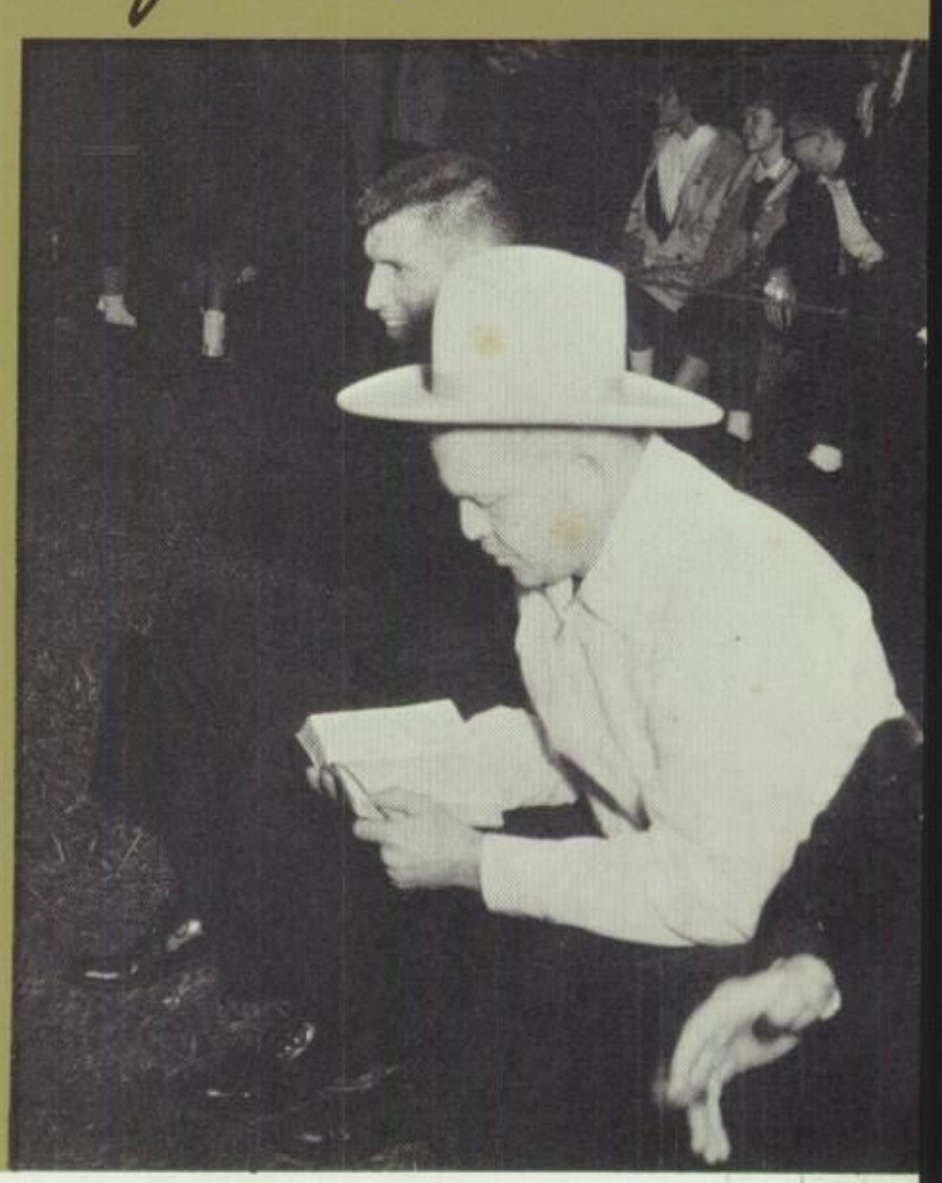
We cannot attempt to put into words in the small space alloted us here everything you mean to us as a student body and as individuals. We can only hope to show our gratitude by carrying the ideals which you have instilled in us into adulthood and by upholding the beliefs of Notre Dame all through our lives.

Father Driscoll, we salute you, and humbly dedicate to you this, our IRISH ECHOES of 1960.



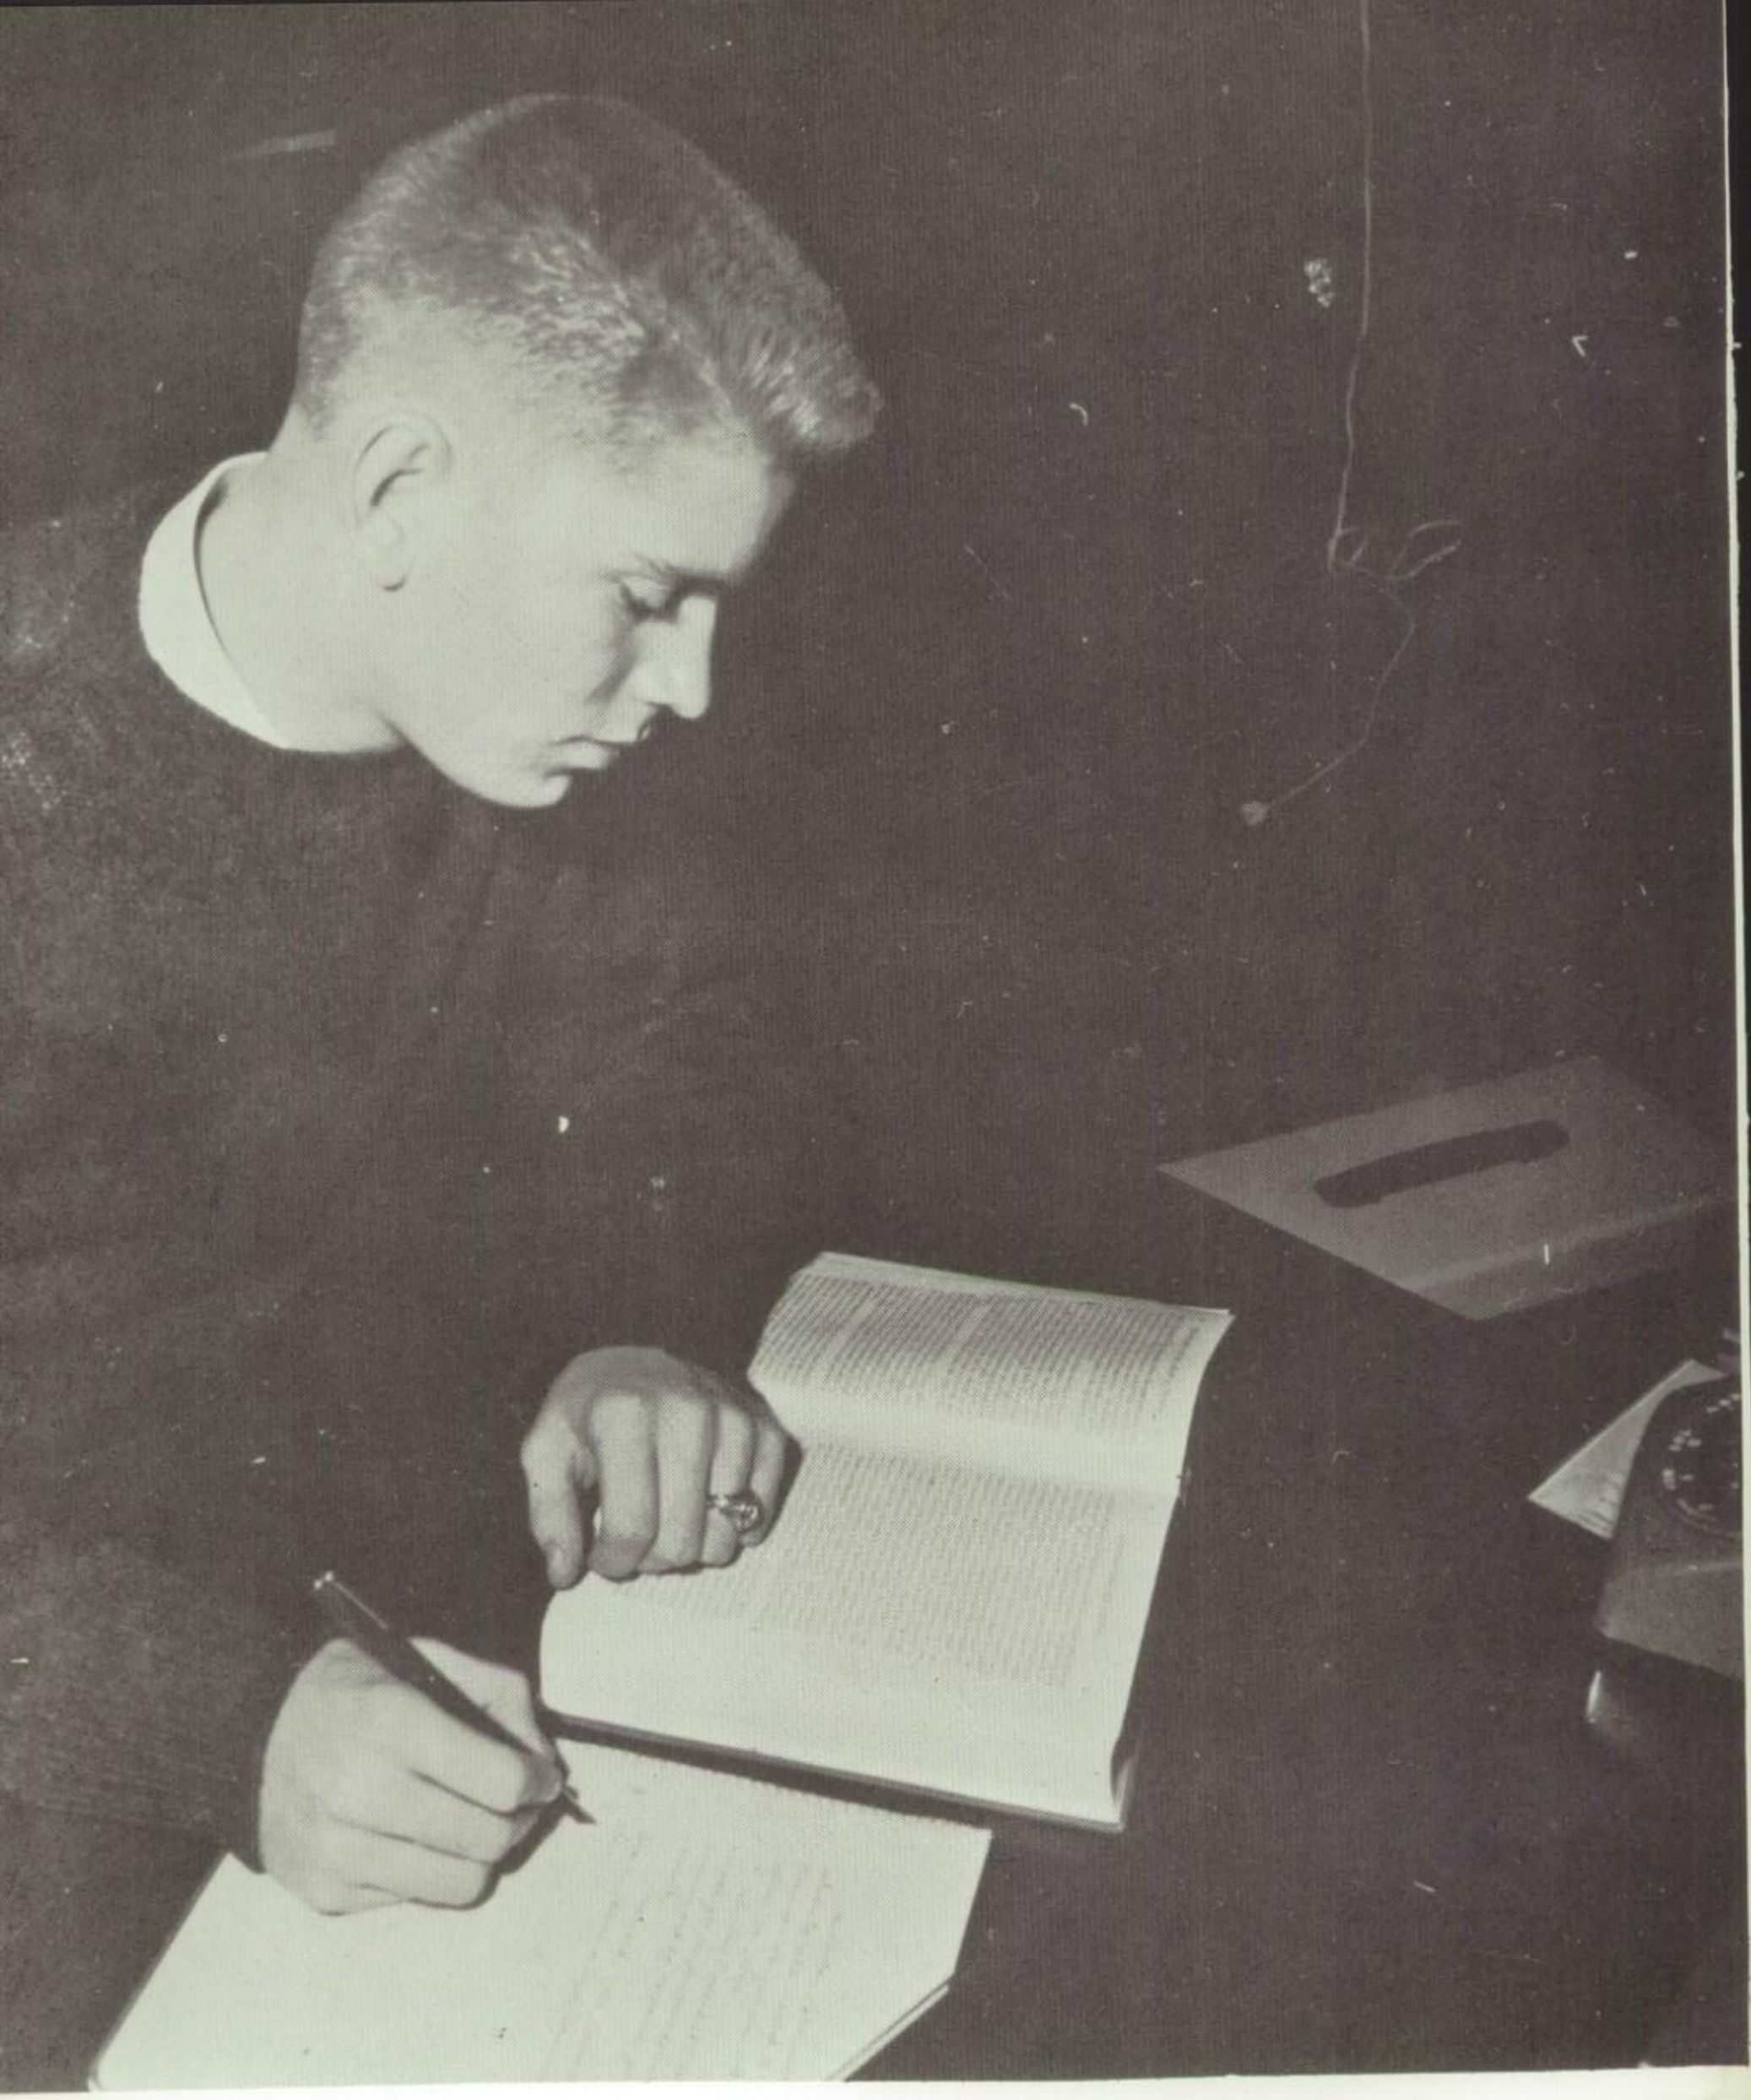
. . . Our Principal

Father James J. Driscoll



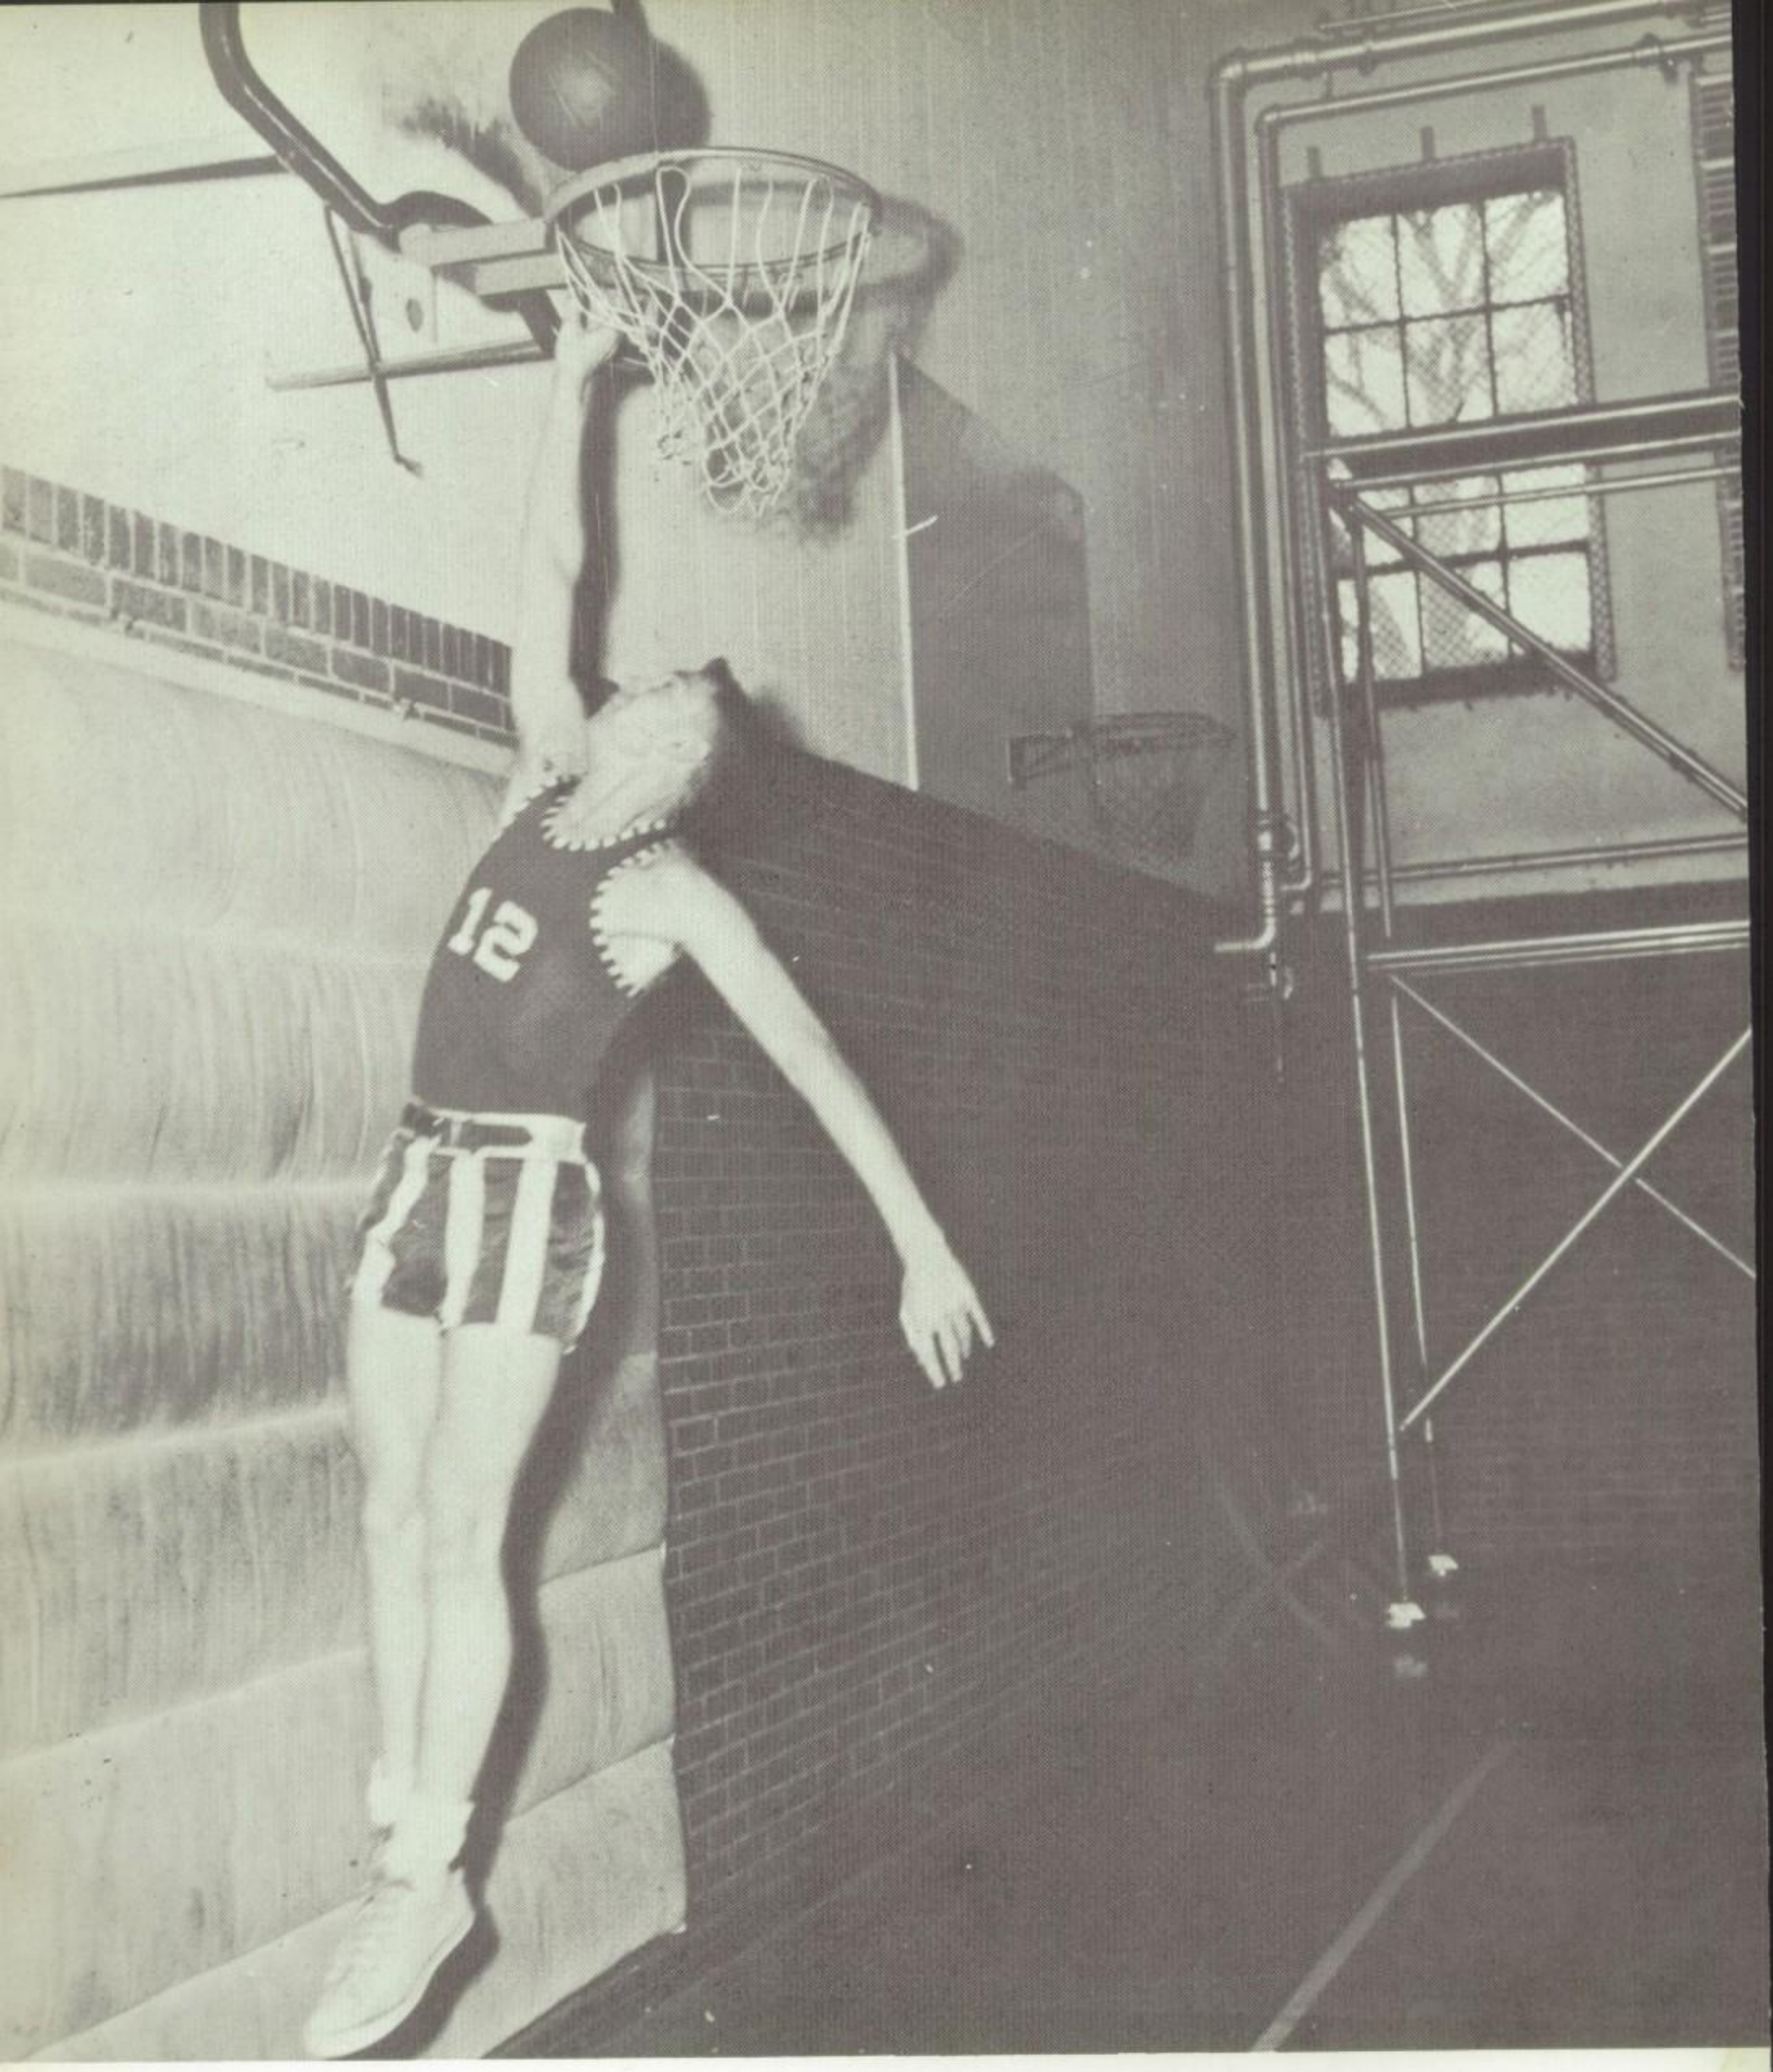
We—her students—

strive to express her ideals . . .



to embrace her knowledge . . .

to profess her creed . . .



to attain her goals . . .

to uphold her tradition . . .

to share in her laughter . . .

to absorb her culture, and to achieve honor . . .

in the name of Notre Dame

Table of Contents

1 FACULTY

Since Notre Dame aims to bring the pupils' conduct into conformity with Christian ideals, the members of the faculty are Christian men and women thoroughly imbued with the spirit of Christ, well-instructed in their faith, and possessing broad general scholarship, and intensive training in their special fields.

2 CLASSES

The true product of Christian education is the whole man, one who thinks, judges, and acts consistently in accordance with right reason illumined by the teaching of Jesus Christ. As a result, religion permeates the whole curriculum.

3 ACTIVITIES

American Democracy is based essentially on the idea of inalienable personal rights coming from God. Notre Dame, recognizing this fundamental principle, trains its youth in the principles of Democracy, citizenship and leadership.

4 SPORTS

Its curriculum includes, not only studies, but also activities that tend to promote the welfare of the individual and of society. Pupils are further guided by expert counselors to adjust themselves to the social institutions in which they live.

5 ADS

It is the interest and support of the advertisers and patrons that has enabled the students to present this yearbook. Gratitude can be expressed only by its contents, which the staff earnestly hopes are well worth the interest shown by its benefactors.

Juniors! At last . . . . .upperclassmen!

After a year of bearing the torments and cruelty that only freshmen undergo, and then a year of being wise fools as sophomores, we have finally attained the unattainable (from a freshman's view-point), privileges and responsibilities of upperclassmen.

Notre Dame has had its effect on our class, increasing its spirit and unity along with its knowledge, but we juniors are not without our contributions to the school. Some outstanding leaders in all extra-curricular activities are juniors.

On the gridiron juniors shine and on the gym floor we sparkle, to say nothing of the flashing juniors on the diamond. In science fairs we walk away with honors, while we really make those drums jump and horns sound off in the band.

Juniors are active in C.S.M.C. and C.Y.O. We add our melodious strains in the Glee Club, and our writing talent to the Marian. We hold offices in such school-wide organizations as the Student Council, Sodality, and C.S.M.C. not to mention the National Honor Society, Glee Club, Science and Math Clubs, and the language clubs. We are on the Irish Echoes staff and the Marian staff. Where there's an activity, there's a junior.

The juniors of today are the scientists, engineers, writers, missionaries, mothers, fathers, sisters and priests of tomorrow.

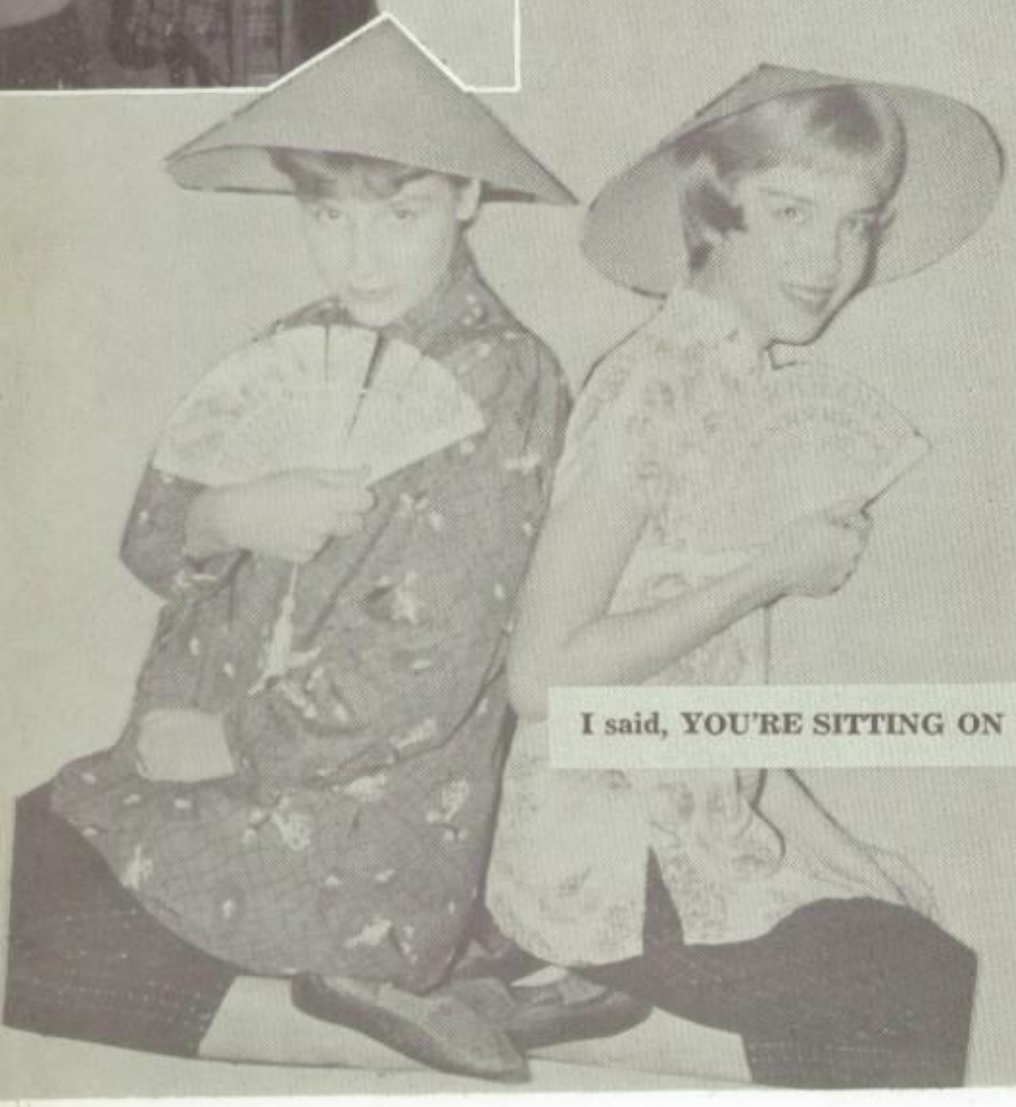
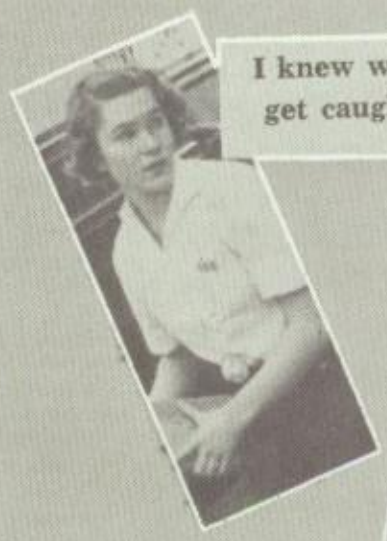
Why, you big ole' fabulous football player, you!

Pass it down . . . she won't see you.

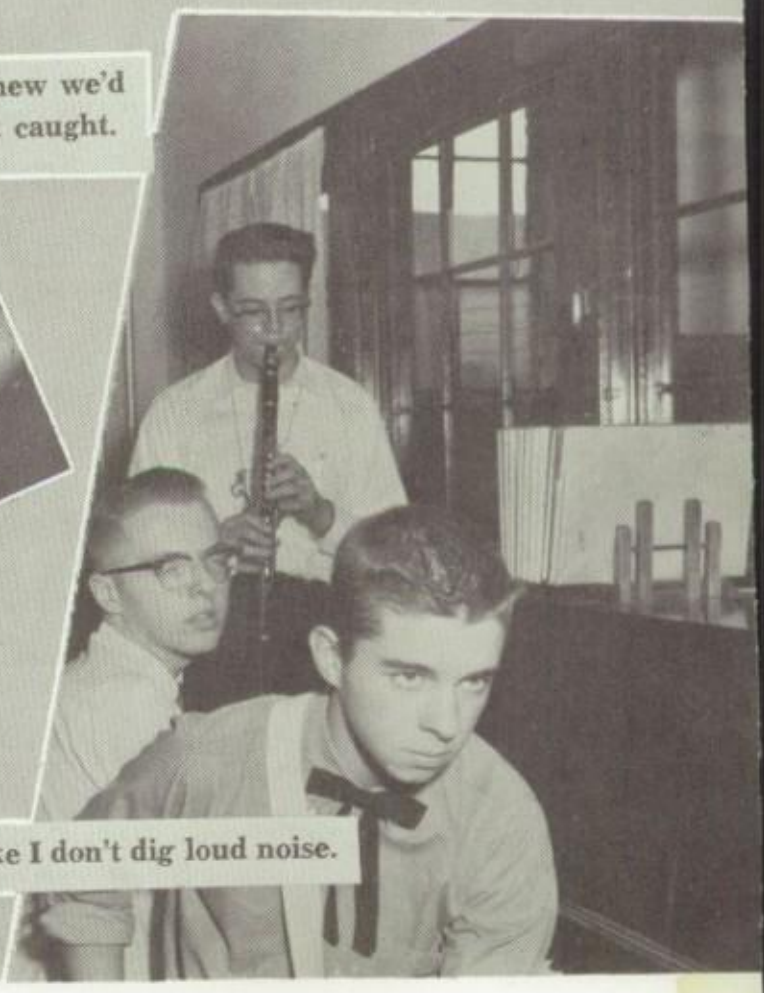
Boy, if I was playin' tonight . . .



I said, YOU'RE SITTING ON MY FOOT!!



I knew we'd get caught.



Back off, man, like I don't dig loud noise.

Sophomores

During 1959 and 1960 the Sophomores were very busy establishing themselves. Their probationary days as Freshmen were over and they settled down to the task of making a name for themselves scholastically, athletically and socially. Looking back over the past year, it seems as if they have accomplished this objective. There is hardly a club, study group, committee or team around that doesn't have its share of Sophomores. In the Math and Science clubs their representation was as good in quality as in quantity. Those in the National Honor Society took their positions as probationary members seriously and took active part in the activities of the Society. Quite a number from this class turned out with interest and vigor for the C.S.M.C. study groups.

One meets Sophomores in the lineup of every phase of athletics at Notre Dame. Three from their number lettered in football this year, and loyal classmates even organized a private cheering section for star quarterback Bill Sharp. The Sophomores boast of two hoopsters on the first string of the basketball team, and one starting guard for the Irishettes. Two boys from the class pounded their way to glory in the annual Golden Gloves.

Socially speaking, the Sophomores are really pacesetters. During the football season they hosted an open house in St. Stephen's Hall. The green and white decorations were a colorful testimony of the outstanding Sophomore spirit and team support.

In the field of music the Sophomore girls have been avid participators in the Cecilians. At this year's Christmas concert they received the distinction of having their own quartet.

There are three Sophomore representatives to the Student Council, and two students from this class were appointed committee heads during the year.

Under the capable leadership of their class officers and the guidance of Sister Mary James, the Sophomore class has indeed proven itself worthy of a place at Notre Dame.

FRESHMEN

CLASS OFFICERS: Joan Hubbuch, secretary; Nancy Scheiderbaues, president; Barry Fischer, treasurer; James Chandler, vice president; Sister Marie Adelaide, moderator.

The Freshman class of '63 has adjusted itself quickly to the many and varied activities of high school. This class, numbering ninety-one, actively participates in all of the extra-curricular organizations at Notre Dame. The entire Freshman class belongs to the C.S.M.C. Some have shown interest enough to start new committees functioning; one of which is devoted to collecting cancelled stamps for the missions. Freshmen are engaged in making cookies for our graduates in the novitiates. The day of their investiture was a proud one for the girls of this class, as they dedicated their youthful lives to the Blessed Mother and recited for the first time her Little Office.

On the scholastic side, several Freshmen are to be seen among the members of the Science and Math Clubs. The "brains" of the class have been accepted as probationary members of the Honor Society, and they recently delegated two representatives to the Student Council.

The Freshman response to the Athletic Program was encouraging to say the least. Twenty-seven boys have proven themselves future hopefuls for the Varsity football squad by their amazing prowess on the gridiron despite their small size. Ever there to cheer them on were the spirited Frosh cheerleaders, who brought to many a far-off place their warm Irish spirit.

Yes, here is a class which has truly gained a place for itself at Notre Dame. They have cooperated fully with her principles and shall continue to do so in the future. The freshman. . . one eye is misty as he glances back at the wonderful year; and in the other there is a twinkle as he scans the road ahead.

Activities

"There is a time for some things and a time for all things; a time for great things, and a time for small things."

RELIGIOUS

Religion, to the true Christian is not a way of life, nor a part of his life, but rather, it is his entire life. His faith radiates from his whole being and influences in a quiet manner his friends and associates.

It is, then, the basic aim of Notre Dame to develop the truly Christian man and woman. Through daily Mass and Holy Communion, she enables the students to remain ever in active participation with their faith. Each period of the day is begun and ended with a prayer, in which each member of the class offers his activity and any knowledge he may gain to God, and asks for guidance and wisdom that he may fulfill more worthily his immediate station in life.

The Notre Dame student, by right of his Catholic education, is afforded the opportunity of intimate contact with the priests and religious of Christ's teaching force. Their mere presence inspires him and serves as a reminder that God so loved him as to send His annointed servants to instruct him, counsel him, and help him in the intricate process of growing up.

The man and woman who acts in accordance with the true spirit of Notre Dame, will elect to display his Christian concepts of living in every instance, under any circumstance, and with all manner of men. He will bear his religion as his standard into battle. He will fight the never-ending fight for his Church, his country, his school and his honor. By the grace of God he shall be victorious; he shall return from his war with the world unscathed, bearing proudly the victor's prize, his soul's salvation; and prepared to claim the spoils of war, happiness for an eternity.

"I Will Go Unto the Altar of God . . . .

. . . .To God Who gives joy to my youth."

Two figures approach the altar of sacrifice. The taller is vested in the changeless liturgical garments of the Roman Catholic Church. The boy at his side wears the simple black and white of his position — that of server at the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. This youth kneeling with bowed head before the altar of God unconsciously represents a world-wide organization within the Mystical Body. He symbolizes a rare breed among the faithful — a group of boys and young men whose primary duty is to serve God on the altar and in life.

How often the great King must smile down on His earthly page boy who lifts sleep-filled eyes in his Master's direction and murmures the familiar Latin responses. A twinge of a smile must creep to the Divine lips as He notices two muddy feet approaching the throne of His banquet hall.

The aspect of complete reverence and devotion to duty far outshines in the Divine eyes the patched surplice and hemless cassock.

The altar boy doesn't have to be told of God's special love for him . . . After all, isn't he the personal valet of Jesus Christ?

Above the responses of the Mass must surely rise on high the altar boy's own prayer. . . . "Thank You, my God, for giving me the greatest joy of my youth; the opportunity of service to Your Beloved Son."

C S M C

Under the direction of Sister Mary James, the C.S.M.C. has become very active. The discussion clubs formed this year have studied such current topics as Communism, the racial problems in the South, and mission areas in Africa. Programs were presented to the student body illustrating facts, or sometimes fancies, of the subject and outlining steps for reform of the problem.

Among activities sponsored by the C.S.M.C. are the skating party at Southland, the annual Variety Show, and the collection and distribution of clothes and food to the needy at Christmas.

Our C.S.M.C. has been chosen to be represented at the National Convention of C.S.M.C.ers at the University of Notre Dame in August.

Not only cultural benefits, but also opportunities to perform charitable works and to enjoy much fun are available to the many active C.S.M.C.ers at Notre Dame.

SCHOLASTIC

Notre Dame's scholastic achievements are many and varied. Her name is heard echoing through science fairs, oratorical contests, honor societies, and national mathematic and foreign language clubs.

Eighty percent of her students further their education through attendance at colleges and a great many honor her name by receiving scholarships from different universities. Within recent years, more than one member of her graduating classes have been named semi-finalists of the National Merit Scholarship program.

High awards in competitions have made this institution proud of her participants in all fields of endeavor.

There is a certain glow of satisfaction among the faculty and student body in knowing that, not only their talent and natural ability placed them so often in the winner's circle, but also their hard work and willingness to shoulder responsibility.

Few students labor as do Notre Dame students, and fewer yet, attain that feeling of pride and satisfaction that can come only from reaping honors in the name of their school.

Don't let Notre Dame's size fool you. . . She has more power than you may think. Her pupils will develop into tomorrow's leaders, and will merit your respect and admiration just as they deserve it today.

The Student Government Association of Notre Dame, was organized for the purpose of promoting cooperation between faculty and students, to aid the student body in assuming a voice in the government of the school, and to aid in direct control of student conduct.

During this, its first year of existence, the Student Council has accomplished much and has proven itself capable of directing the student body toward better self-government and individual responsibilty.

Several committees were established to study and remedy the various situations found among the sanitation, legislation and discipline of the school. Mike O'Grady and Carl Hubbuch, heading the disciplinary committee, enforce all the rules and regulations drawn up by the legislative committee, which is organized by Brian Corden and Susan Hubbuch. The sanitation committee acts under the orders of Suzy Durham as chairman.

A formal constitution, drawn up and voted upon by the student body during the school year of 1958-59, was improved this year by the competent and resourceful members of the Student Council. This constitution contains articles explaining the duties of the officers and the committees of the Student Council, as well as the various issues the council has authority to act upon.

Due to the capable members who meet their responsibilities with enthusiasm and determination as well as to the cooperation of the student body the Student Council has made a very successful beginning. It is assured that Notre Dame will see many more years of success under a Student Council such as this.

The Irish Echoes

Every yearbook has a story. Ours started one day in August, when a group of Senior girls were sitting around sipping cokes and discussing how nice it would be if Notre Dame could have a yearbook again. "Well, why not?" somebody asked, and with that the lazy tempo of the conversation was transformed into a mood of excitement and eager anticipation. Everyone was full of ideas that day, it seemed. After all, history was being made at that little gathering, although nobody really knew it at the time. In fact, the matter was practically forgotten until some weeks after school started when three very scared and very doubtful girls decided to pay a visit to Father's office one day during sixth period. Much to their surprise and delight, Father approved of the idea of a yearbook and was even enthusiastic. Of course, Sister Cecilia was happy too . . . until we broke the news to her that she was to be our faculty advisor.

Everyone in school took part in the selection of a name for our new pride and joy. An award of five dollars was presented to the person whose title was chosen. The staff takes this opportunity to assure the student body that the contest was NOT rigged. The name "Irish Echoes" just sort of grew on us this year, and we feel sure that it will stand the test of time and grow to be a cherished tradition at Notre Dame.

The staff was finally selected. As we look back on it, WOW, what a bunch of raw recruits we were! But we worked together and learned together by trial and error. The going was rough, but we made it. We emerged victorious and just a bit worse for wear. We feel that it is unnecessary to speak of the time and labor that went into publishing the yearbook. Those of us who worked already know. Those of us who didn't wouldn't be interested. Anyway, that is all in the past now. All that's left is the satisfaction that comes from knowing that we've accomplished our mission, and a book which will give us pleasure years from now.

As a final word, the Staff and Committees of the Irish Echoes wish to thank Father Driscoll and Sister Cecilia for their cooperation and advice throughout the completion of this monumental task, the Faculty for their patience with us during the many trying days of picture-taking and other methods of disturbing classes at which we were such experts. To all our advertisers and patrons also, a note of appreciation. Without their help the IRISH ECHOES would be still a dream in the hearts of those few Senior girls.

But how great the Reward!

There is one among us to whom much work, but little recognition, is all too orten given. This bundle of energy to whom we are referring is Mrs. Costner, the HUB of Notre Dame, by her industrious office staff, Mrs. Costner keeps the business of the school running smoothly and efficiently.

Notre Dame is indeed fortunate to offer club activities which not only further the spiritual and social development, but also the intellectual growth of the students.

Our French and Spanish clubs place an important and yet enjoyable emphasis on modern languages outside the classroom. Through these organizations the students are acquainted with the backgrounds and customs of the land and people whose languages they are mastering. In such a way foreign languages become more personal to the students, and instead of so many strange words, is a living and vital key to the other half of the world.

Through the Science and Math Clubs and the tremendous interest shown by the students in these fields, Notre Dame has been able to establish and maintain a great name for itself in this scientific age in which we are living. Indeed, today's Science and Math Club members are tomorrow's leaders in whatever that forthcoming age of scientific progress will be called. But, whatever its name, we may be sure that Notre Dame's men and women will be witnesses to its advent.

The Press Club is a competent and busy association which meets the responsibility of the Marian deadline. Made up of a group of talented writers, businessmen and snoopers, the Press Club also promises a flourishing future for budding journalists and editors.

IRISH 7; OOLTEWAH 14

September 4, 1959

The Fighting Irish" fought Ooltewah ball club 14-7 at Ooltewah but could not contain the Owls as they scored in the first and third periods.

The lone Irish marker came as a result of a 30-yard intercepted pass by Jimmy Laub. Gary Herbst added the PAT.

Defensive stalwarts were Jackie Cremer and Hugh Smith at the ends and Jim Heimen at center.

IRISH 35; DUNLAP 0

September 11, 1959

Irish won their first game of the season downing Dunlap 35-0 at Dunlap field. This marks the first victory for head coach Tom Clary and assistant coach Larry Doak.

The "Fighting Irish" tallied five touchdowns. Gary Hill scored three times; Gene Hubbuch and Buddy Hickey each accounted for one. Charley Terrell kicked five points after touchdown. Jimmy Hennen and Gary Hill were outstanding on defense.

IRISH 20; BRIDGEPORT 0

September 18, 1959

The "Fighting Irish" won their second game of the season by defeating Bridgeport 20-7. The Irish after fighting with Bridgeport to a 7-7 tie in the first half, came out in the second half, giving a terrific display of football power and finesse.

The Irish drove for two more tallies while holding a fine B Bridgeport team scorless. The game ended in a 20-7 score. Defensive standouts were Gary Hill and Jimmy Hennen.

IRISH 38; EAST RIDGE 0

September 25, 1959

Notre Dame routs East Ridge 38-0. The "Fighting Irish," in winning their third straight victory, battered the ranks of the East Ridge "Pioneers" for 497 total yards before 3,500 fans and two dogs. Seven Irish backs shared in the Irish assault. TD's for the Irish were by Gary Hill, Buddy Hickey, Skipper Nardo, and end Jack Cremer with Gary Herbs passing for one and adding two extra points. Gary Hill's punting stood out as he kicked six times for a brilliant 40-yd. average.

Notre Dame flashed several defensive stars but one of the brightest was 170 lb. guard Jim Hennen, along with teammates Gene Bruno and Mike O'Grady.

IRISH 55; POLK COUNTY 0

October 2, 1959

Notre Dame bowled over Polk Co. for their 4th straight victory and avenging the lone loss of the 1958 campaign by a 55-0 score. In this awesome display of football power, four backs and an end scored, they were Gary Hill (3 TD's), Charlie Terrell (2 TD's), Skipper Nardo, David Brown and Hugh Smith each scored one. A new record was almost set when Charlie Terrell kicked seven PAT's to tie a previous record set by Gene Etter of Central. The fighting Irish amassed an amazing 472 yds. on the ground and 62 in the air. Jimmy Hennen glittered on defense recovering a fumble and making many timely tackles. Along with Hennen was Benn Haynes who recovered two fumbles and had a good night. Other Irish defenders were Jimmy Laub, Gene Brun, Mike O'Grady, Carl Hubbuch and Gary Hill.

NOTRE DAME 13; HIXSON 0

October 9, 1959

Coach Tom Clary's Irish powered their way to their fifth straight victory as they rolled over a fine Hixson team. The Irish did not waste any time breaking into the scoring column as they took the opening kickoff and drove 78 yards to pay dirt. Charlie Terrell then added the PAT making the score 7-0. The scoring drive was capped by Charlie Terrell's 23 yard run around left end. Two fumbles were recovered by Gene Bruno, the other came when Jimmy Hennen blocked a punt and Lawson Laub fell on it in the end zone for the last Irish tally.

The game ended with the Irish winning 13-0. The Grennie line had several outstanding stars with Laub, O'Grady, Bruno, Hennen and Lynch leading the way. The whole line did a tremendous job as they held the wildcats to 5 yards rushing on the ground in the second half.

IRISH 7; LAKEVIEW 13

October 16, 1959

The Lakeview Warriors defeated the Notre Dame Irish by the score 13-7 for the Greenies second defeat of the season against five victories. In the game with the Warriors two Irish players were seriously hurt, Gary Herbst and Gary Hill. Herbst received a broken collar bone while making a tackle and Gary Hill sprained his ankle.

The first score came in the second period, the Irish added PAT and the score was 7-0. The Warriors came right back and made two TD's and one extra point for the 13-7 score, the way it remained the rest of the game.

IRISH 7; SOUTH PITTSBURG 0

October 23, 1959

Irish defense held the South Pittsburg Pirates to 19 yds. rushing in the process of winning their sixth ball game of the season. The 7-0 score does not indicate the ferocity of the Irish attack as they gained 225 yards on the ground.

Coach Tom Clary praised his linesmen Jimmy Hennen, Gene Bruno, Lawson Laub, Jimmy Laub, Benn Haynes, Mike O'Grady, Carl Hubbuch, and Linebacker Tommy Hubbuch for the terrific Defensive job. Skipper Nardo made the lone Irish tally and Charlie Terrell, N.D.'s kicking specialist, added the extra point.

IRISH 6; TRENTON 13

October 30, 1959

Once beaten Dade County High School defeated Notre Dame Irish by the score of 13-6. The Dade County Wildcats opened the scoring in the second quarter when Doug Wheeler dashed 85 yards around end for the tally. The remainder of the first half was a defensive game.

In the third period the Irish battled back and scored a TD on Buddy Hickey's 28-yd reverse around left end. The PAT failed and the score was tied 6-6.

Dade Co. scored again in the fourth quarter, a 60 yd. drive being capped by a 42 yd. pass from Wheeler to Richard McKaig. The PAT was good and made the score 13-6 the way it remained the rest of the game. The Irish had the spirit but seemed to lack the scoring punch they had in previous games. In the line Carl Hubbuch, Gene Bruno and Mike O'Grady stood out.

IRISH 6; TYNER 6

November 6, 1959

The Fighting Irish closed the season until next year in a game with the Tyner Hilltoppers which ended in a 7-7 tie. The Irish scored first in the contest in the first period with 41 seconds left to go, on Hill's 1 yd. plunge. The PAT failed and the score was 6-0. The Hill Toppers came right back in the second period and scored on Terry Cotter's 37 yd. dash capping a 64 yd. drive. The PAT failed and the score remained 6-6 for the whole game.

When the Irish took the second half kickoff it looked as though they might score again but a 15 yd. penalty and two pass attempts which failed ended that. Mike O'Grady, Lawson Laub, Gene Bruno and Carl Hubbuch were standouts in the line.

Dedication

This poem is about a man, widespread is his fame,
For it all started when our Sports Director he became;
He has as much school spirit as any of us,
In fact, I would say he has school spirit plus;
He is rarely absent from a school event,
And from the rising cigar smoke this is evident;
He is always ready to defend his team,
And when we tell him he's great, his faces does gleam;
And now from the rooftops this man I'll proclaim,
FATHER SCHILLING IS GREAT . . . (for this is his name.)

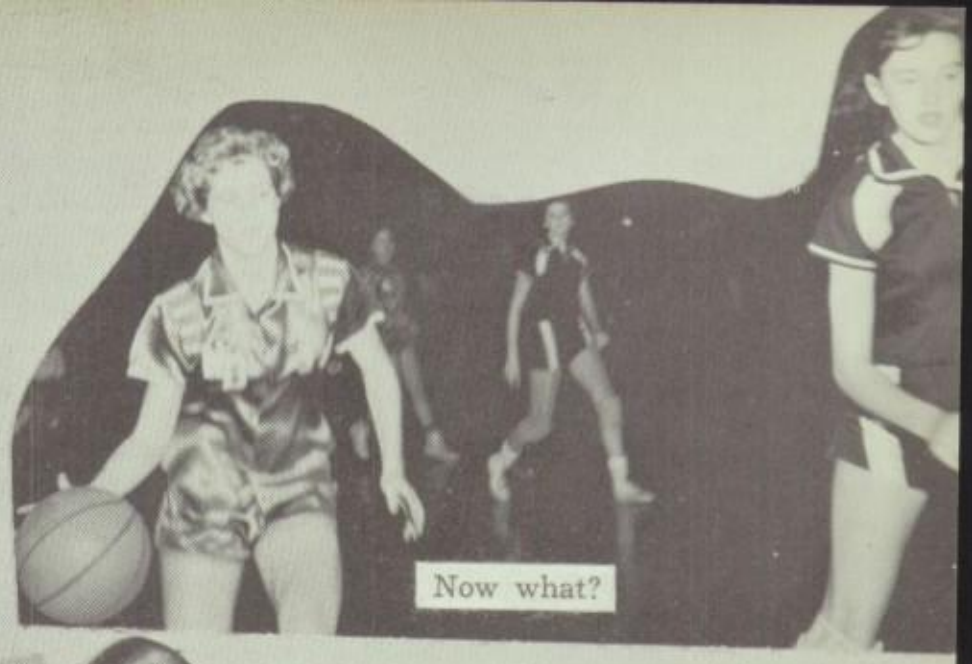
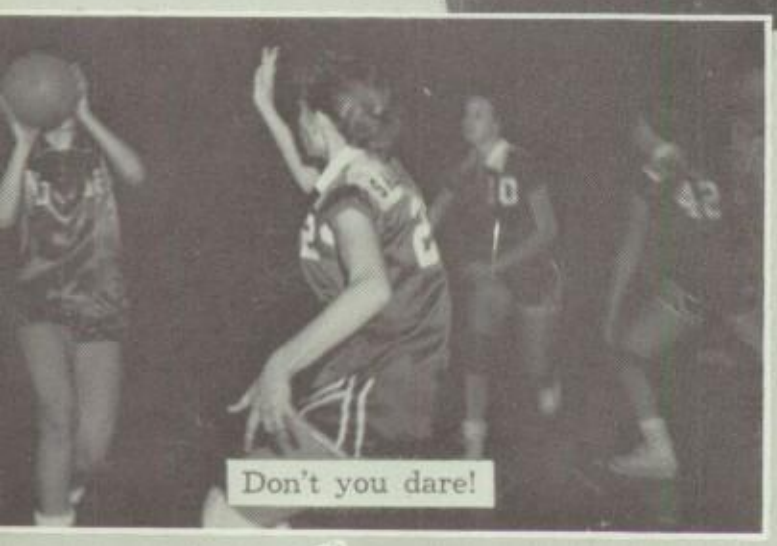
I said get out of my way . . .



Now what?

Boy, it's a beaut!

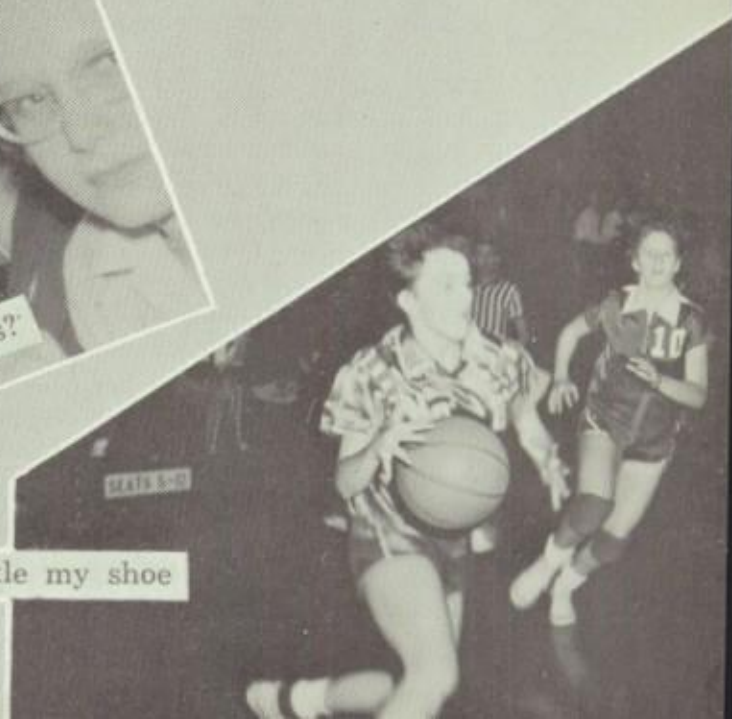


Don't you dare!

Whistle while you work

Where did everybody go!

Why didn't someone tell us?



One, two, buckle my shoe

We Salute Them for Their Spirit—

It Lives On

Girls of action, the cheerleaders here at Notre Dame are very capable ones.They are truly representatives of hard work, for behind the glamor of that pert little cap and those immaculate white gloves lies months of preparation. But then, diligent and consistent work is typical of a cheerleader in every thing she does. She strives to please everyone, and often this is a tedious job. She represents her school in every thing she is and does, in or out of uniform. Most important to her, she most ably earns the right to wear the Notre Dame letter. With much credit due to the work of the cheerleaders, the vivacious spirit for which the Irish are known is always high, as it should be. Through their efforts, the student body is entertained at pep rallies, as the cheerleaders build up spirit in their delightful way. So real is this, that it is perceivable all around you, and in every one. It starts as a tingle in your toes, and excitement envelopes you and pulls you along in its happy trend! How can a team, when spurred by such a glorious feeling and desire for victory, help but win? And how can a student body with spirit like this, help but be proud of the teams representating their school in any circumstance?

The History of the Senior Class of 1960

BENN HAYNES, Class Historian

Well, class of '60, our long-awaited graduation day has finally come to a close. This is the day that four years ago we thought would never come.

Four years ago, so far away, and yet so near. It was then that we were trying to get used to a school life void of recesses, rest periods, and a lot of extra time. But this was not a sad year, no indeed, it was one of the best years of our high school days. It was a year of playing B Team football and basketball, our first pep rally, trying out for the Glee Club, going to Club 60 parties; a year of participating in our first retreat, first spring practice for the Varsity, playing a great part in winning thirty percent of the prizes in the Junior Science Fair, sweating through Latin and Algebra, listening to stories of the good old days in Father Seiner's Religion class, going to our first formal—the Mary Dance, and eagerly awaiting the arrival of our Sophomore year.

Now we were no longer "tenderfeet" in high school ways. Many of us had survived our first summer football camp and were geared for a successful football season. Our Sophomore year was the first and last year of the fun-filled events which were constantly enjoyed by all who participated in the bi-weekly sessions of gym class. More fame was brought to Notre Dame by the Science Club and the newly-formed National Math Club. Many of us were now probationary members in the National Honor Society. It was in this year that the baseball team almost won the championship. Our Sophomore year came to a close with the C.Y.O. Spring Formal, our last Mary Dance, and with anticipation of the wonderful Junior year that was to come.

In the fall of '58 we entered the portals of Notre Dame, not as the beaten, shoved, stepped-on, mistreated underclassmen of yesterday, but as the beaten, shoved, stepped-on, mistreated upperclassmen of today. As these uperclassmen, it was our duty to brave Algebra II, Chemistry and Biology. During this year honors were won by a Junior representative in the state oratorical contest, the football team put forth its best efforts to realize a record-breaking season. Following this was our hilarious Junior Class play. The Cecilians spurred on to greater heights of success, and began entertaining with occasional dances. The band also reached a new peak and provided many enjoyable hours of listening pleasure. And then there was Junior-Senior Day!!! This year was climaxed by our first real prom which left in our hearts anticipation of a great Senior year.

August 28, 1959—For the last time we entered the doors of beloved Notre Dame to begin our Senior year and to assume the responsibilities this entails.

Right away we began with the force and fervor that had been our trademark for the past three years. We started the wheels rolling by another successful football season. Also, various contest, scholarships, and awards, such as the Hamilton County Voice of Democracy Contest, the National Merit Scholarship, the Leadership Palladin Award and the American Legion oratorical contest were all won by members of our Senior Class.

It was our class that set the ball in motion toward the publication of a yearbook—the first in over five years.

Again, our class play, this time the comedy—fantasy "Down to Earth," proved a great success.

Although we all have our own memories concerning our Senior year, such as homework, classmates, teachers and many more, there are two memories that will remain forever with most of us, and these are the memories of our Senior Prom and our Graduation Day.

They signify, not only the end of our high school days and the companionship of many of our friends, but also the beginning of a new life—but of what kind of life? That, my dear classmates, depends solely upon you.

Senior Class Prophecy

As the first women into space, we Doctor Diana von Werssowetz and Barbara Dahl, R.N., present this progress of the class of 1960 as we observe it from our orbit in outer space.

Class Prophecy
Year: 1970
Log of the Satelite "Future Fortune."
Position: Bearing over Alaska
Observation:

Famous winter sports star, Betty Ruth Conner, amazing the world with her skill at playing Hockey.

Position: Hollywood, California
Observation:

Passing the home of Jumping Jerry Johnson, TV wrestler, we see a garden party attended by the start of "French a la TV" show, Jeanette Maier. Her, escort, Pat Park, is the owner and operator of that stylish beauty shop, "Park of Beauty."

Position: Pebble Beach, California
Observation:

Here, George Dorsey is claiming his place among the golfing greats, as he breaks all records.

Position: Tulsa, Oklahoma
Observation:

Below is the prospering "Double Decker Desk Company" founded and owned by Faye Haller.

Position: New Orleans, Louisiana
Observation:

We see Marty Cannon kept busy by her growing Corporation "Mrs. Pussykins Tasty Dog Biscuit Company." She and Nell Heywood are quite close, particularly since Nell was elected president of the "Be Kind to French Poodles Society." Making his contribution to the fine foods of New Orleans is Chef John Vach.

Position: Magnolia, Georgia
Observation:

Below lies the country home of Joe Bagdonas, inventor of the "Crack Quick Nut Cracker" (as the nuts are cracked, a carpet sweeper picks up the shells.) Down the road, is the farm of Allen Erickson which bears the sign "Buy your hot feathers from my chicken ranch." On the campus of the University of Georgia, we see Professor Jackie Cremer, Dean of American History. In nearby Atlanta, Anne Robinson, has finally taken up residency.

Position: Chattanooga, Tennessee
Observation:

Chattanooga is being sparked by Charlie Terrell, who is a live wire in he electrical business there, In the wilds.

Position: Boston, Massachusetts
Observation:

Within the stately walls of a prim Boston finishing school we see Susan Hubbuch giving singing lessons and Linda Hollerbach instructing students in speech. On the best seller list is Patsy Terrell's book, Delightful Diets.

Position: New York City, New York
Observation:

On the outskirts of the city are Jimmy Stults and Frances Lamere converting the beatniks with the aid of the up-and-coming psycholanalist, Doctor Benn Haynes. In the heart of the city we find Charlotte Barr as a smash on 77 Pyramid Strip in her new play "Egyptian Echoes." In Madison Square Garden is Maurice Sanders, the last of the men on the flying trapeze.

Position: Kalamazoo, Michigan
Observation:

Star basketball player for the Kalamazoo Pizza Punders is Geno Bruno. Running the neighborhood mortuary known as Smiley's is Butch Humbert. Proprietor of the "Nifty Nitting Nook" is Rosemary Lane and next door to her shop, is Jane Hill's "Little Spoon" ice cream parlor.

Position: Chicago, Illinois
Observation:

Here we see Dawn Henderson as she prepares to leave for Chattanooga. Her book, How to Get Lynched and Like It has just been published. In a great hospital in the city, Kitty Kaepplinger has just discovered the "pholy-pholy" germ. Carl Hubbuch has just been chosen "Mr. Foot." of Chicago and has retained the services of Jimmy Sharp as his personal shoe tailor.

Position: Detroit, Michigan
Observation:

In the world of industry, Tom Roberts, is making great strides in the development of safety devices for cars. Teddy Stanford is throwing a party for John Pikcunias, Hugh Smith, and Lloyd Wentworth, engineers who have just designed and constructed the tallest barber pole in the world for Teddy's barber shop. Entertaining at the party is Tommy Webb, creator of the new cartoon characters, "Topsy Tillie, Jimmy the Junkman, and Susie Sweet."

Final Observation:

Nostalgia draws us home!!!

The Last Will and Testament of the Senior Class

We, the Senior Class of Notre Dame, being of sound mind, unquestionable memory and undisputed vivacity do hereby declare this to be our last will and testament. The provisions thereof are to be thoroughly appreciated and executed by those who have the good fortune of being honored in such a distinguished manner.

To our cherished school, we bequeath our remarkable scholastic aptitudes, our mannerly ways, our "good looks" and our fabulous way with the teachers to the up-and-coming class of 1961.

Buddy Hickey, Richard Butler and Charley Terrell leave their "F's" in Solid Geometry to anyone with little enough sense to be taking such a hard subject.

The ability of staying in constant trouble is bequeathed by Joe Bagdonas to Joe McGinnis, Bo Mahoney and Gary Hill.

Nancy Chamberlain and Kay King graciously bestow all their (Notre Dame)? boy friends upon Linda Lynch and Dianne Scallia.

Marty Cannon and Nell Heywood leave their athletic prowess in basketball to Anna Margaret Hetzler and Judy Burke.

John Collison and Jim Stulz leave their seminary aspirations to any Junior who has such noble intentions.

To Gene Hubbuck, Mike O'Grady and Jimmy Hennen go the football abilities of Geno Bruno, Jim Laub and Bobby Lynch.

Ann Robinson, Dawn Henderson, and Beverly Bailey, their cheerleading positions to any girl with sufficient lung power.

The oratorical accomplishments of Charlotte Barr and Patsy Terrell are bequeathed to Sandra Baker and Janet Plumlee.

Jane Hill and Betty Ruh Conner leave their pleasant personalities to Mary Ann Stone, Rebecca Bell and Regina Carter.

The charm and good looks of Irene Brannen, Marie Brunasky and Joan Canon are to be taken and used extensively by Alice Bunn, Mary Virginia Stone and Ellen Kelly.

Benn Haynes, Jimmy Sharp and Lloyd Wentworth leave their underclass girl friends to anyone possessing their "ways with the women."

Gail Gladney, Rosemary Lane and Carol Sue Keck leave their scholastic aptitude in French to Sister Mary Agnes to use or dispose of as she sees fit.

Jack Cremer, John Logan and Pat Park leave their love of "good times" to Jim Fischer and Bob Boehm.

Jon Vach, Francis Lamere and Teddy Stanford bequeath their quietness and solemnity to John Erickson, Jerry Hobson and Gary Herbst.

Barbara Dahl and Faye Haller freeheartedly bestow their journalistic responsibilities upon anyone who can "please" Sister Cecilia.

HARRY WILKINSON, Class Lawyer

The scientific tendencies of Allen Erickson and George Dorsey are left to Sister Hyacinth with hopes that she will utilize them to their full capacity.

Harry Wilkinson and Susan Hubbuch leave their class offices to those Juniors capable of upholding the responsibilities thereof.

Mary Gilles and Linda Hollerbach leave their "Yankee talk" to John Foy and Betty Giles.

The physics books and all the headaches that go with them are left by Tom Roberts, Butch Humbert and Carl Hubbuch to those Juniors who can afford large quantities of sedatives.

Kitty Kaepplinger, Jeanete Maier and Judy Kidwell leave heir attraction to "interesting conversations" to Judy Hill, Melinda L'heureux, and Beth McGuff.

The pleasant smiles of John Pickiunas, Jerry Johnson and John Knight are left to "stone faces" Jimmy Hunt, George Klemm, and Pat Mayo.

Diana von Werssowetz leaves her long name to anyone with a fantastic knack for spelling.

Hugh Smith, Tom Webb and Maurice Sanders leave their intense devotion to Senior English to anyone who is not particular about what he becomes devoted to.

Be it known by all that this document is the complete and final will and testament of the Notre Dame Class of 1960. The Rev. James J. Driscoll is hereby appointed its legal executor.

This will and testament being duly signed, sealed and delivered under due process of law is declared valid from this day on, and by its essence nullifies and voids any previous or post-production.

Processed by Harry Wilkinson
Witnessed by Sister Cecilia, O.P.

And Now . . . Farewell

To Our Alma Mater

We thank the star that guided us
To pass you on our way;
And when we go, as go we must,
We'll remember how you looked today.

For there will always be somewhere,
In spirit or reality;
A school such as we knew here,
Our Alma Mater, hail to thee!
Notre Dame, Farewell.
